Western Regional Joint Threat Assessment Training is seeking presenters!

Montana State University Police Department, ATAP Northwest Chapter and Great Lakes Chapter are excited to announce that the 2025 Western Regional Joint Threat Assessment Training (WRJTAT) will be in beautiful Bozeman, Montana at Montana State University May 28-29, 2025.

WRJTAT is focused on bringing targeted violence prevention professionals together and highlighting the cutting edge and dynamic aspect of the field of threat assessment and management. We will introduce some new and exciting speakers, who can share their knowledge and experience with our attendees .

All ATAP members, researchers, and subject matter experts are encouraged to submit the WRJTAT 2025 Speaker Proposal Application. We are particularly interested in interactive presentations, cases that provide learning points, novel aspects of threat assessment and management, and best practices that will advance our knowledge of the field.

Once submitted, our speaker committee will review your proposal. If selected, speakers will be given a $1500 speaker stipend at the completion of the training to be used towards expenses.

Applications Due 19th of February, 2025
Speakers notified by end of February 2025
